

Implementing ISO 14001 Environmental Management Systems

What is it?

ISO 14001 management systems put environmental best practice at the heart of your operations. It allows your business to grow and succeed while reducing its impact on the environment. And implementing your own environmental management system can increase your chances of cutting energy bills, reducing waste and winning customer confidence in the way you operate responsibly. This course will give you the skills you need to implement ISO 14001, taking you one step closer to registration.

Why do I need it?

You may not have an environmental management system in place, but you want to apply ISO 14001 to your business. The standard and this course are both designed for organizations of all sizes, so this is the ideal way to begin implementation from scratch. You will interpret ISO 14001 requirements and how to apply these, reviewing your current environmental management and identifying ways to improve it. We'll guide you in using essential tools and techniques throughout the entire process, from planning to implementing and maintaining your environmental management system.

How will I benefit?

With ISO 14001 you can streamline the way you work and cut costs in the process. Once you know how to establish your own environmental management system, you can start to assess your current environmental performance and identify opportunities for improvement. And you'll be in a better position to satisfy customers and suppliers who want to work with an environmentally responsible business.

What will I learn?

This two-day course will consolidate your knowledge of ISO 14001, helping you to understand why implementing an environmental management system makes good business sense. You'll learn how to put the system in place in your organization, identifying the roles and responsibilities involved, and reviewing your current practices. Discover how to write environmental policies, establish controls and measure performance. Finally you'll understand the certification process ready for the next steps in your ISO 14001 journey.
