

15 September 2015

Dear Valued Guest,

The ISO 14001:2015 is now published and ISO 9001:2015 is expected to be published on 22 September 2015. We are proud to announce that BSI is the first to receive official global accreditation status from the ANSI-ASQ National Accreditation Board (ANAB) for the new Quality Management Systems Standard, ISO 9001:2015, once it is published.

The revisions are considered to be a big change which the changes have altered the structure and format for the new standards. With an increased focus on the importance of 'Leadership', the new standards will be adopting a 'High Level Structure' and others new requirements to facilitate a better alignment between different quality systems and improve the effectiveness and risk management of the management systems.

As the final standard is published, all organizations will now have three years to transition to the new standard. So, there's no time to lose as you can now buy a copy of the standard to start your transition journey and start carrying out audits to the new version of the standard in order to get ahead of your competition.

To support your transition, BSI has launched a full transition Journey, include Standard, Trainings and on-site gap assessment to help your transition and realize the benefits of ISO 9001:2015 and ISO 14001:2015.

This comprehensive pack includes all the information you need to embed ISO 9001:2015 and/or ISO 14001:2015. Whether you are currently certified with BSI or with another organization, we have a range of additional support services available to help you.

To find out more about how BSI can help you further, contact your dedicated BSI account Manager (see cards attached in your folder). Alternatively please contact us directly at jamie.chong@bsigroup.com or call +852 3149 3331.
