

BS OHSAS 18001 Management Briefing

What is it?

ISO 18001 certification brings enormous benefits to those who have it, but what exactly does it encompass? What are the issues to be aware of? This in-company management briefing delivers a broad perspective of essential information on health and safety management and its associated benefits.

Why do I need it and who should attend?

It is important that you understand what your responsibilities are when it comes to health and safety. This course provides an overview of senior management's responsibilities in relation to BS OHSAS 18001 and the associated benefits of achieving certification. This course is ideal for senior managers, head of departments and company directors.

How will I benefit?

BS OHSAS 18001 sets out the minimum requirements for occupational health and safety management best practice. Work with us to bring BS OHSAS 18001 into your business and you can achieve the maximum return for your employees, your operations and your customers.

What will I learn?

This in-company course will give you confidence in taking responsibility for health and safety in your organization. You will be able to implement health and safety systems to BS OHSAS 18001 standards and understand the legal requirements of non-compliance.
