Rising energy costs impacting your business?

Get them under control with ISO 50001.

...making excellence a habit.™

Save money through better energy management with ISO 50001.

Ever rising energy costs mean that you simply can't afford to ignore seeking better ways to manage this vital part of your organization's activities. It makes sound financial sense and ever increasing environmental sense.
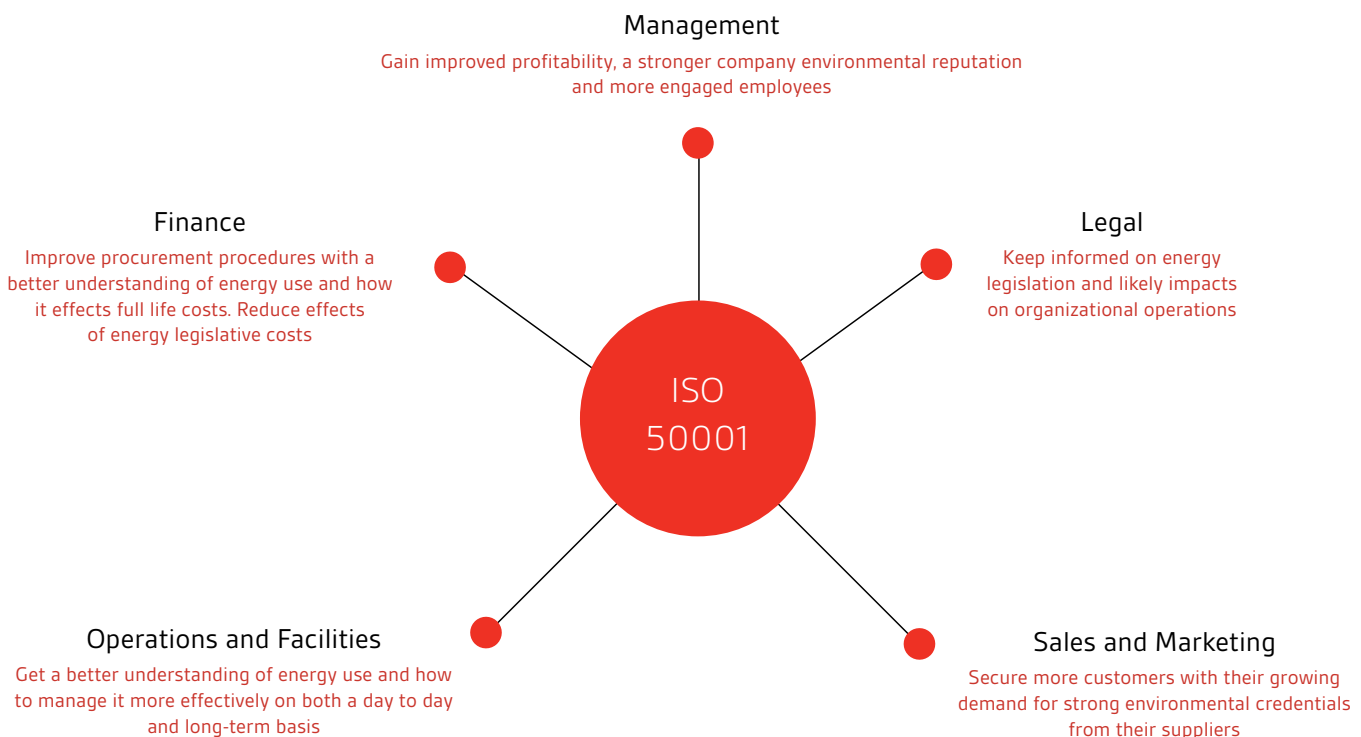

ISO 50001 provides a structured approach to measuring and monitoring how much energy you use. This best-practice management framework sets out how you can manage your energy consumption, realize cost savings and reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

BSI has helped many organizations from small companies to large public bodies successfully embed the principles of ISO 50001. This has led to beneficial changes in the way they work together as an organization, how they approach their procurement and design needs, and how they are meeting the environmental and energy challenges we all face.

"Sheffield Hallam University has already achieved many of the big win energy savings needed to improve its processes. The framework of ISO 50001 has provided us with a tool to deliver this which allows us to maximize potential opportunities and implement changes to operations and behaviours."

Gillian Wright, Energy Carbon Manager, Sheffield Hallam University

Energy is a critical component in most organizations' operations and one that has major cost implications. Working to reduce these costs can have a big impact on an organization's bottom line. ISO 50001 Energy Management System, an international standard outlining the best management practices for achieving energy efficiency, can help you achieve these savings for your organization.

Whether you're new to energy management systems, building on the ISO 14001 Environmental Management System or looking to take your expertise further, BSI have the right training courses, resources and services for you. We offer service packages that can be customized to your business to support your energy management ambitions, wherever you are on the journey of effective energy management.

Morgan Lovell, a leading office interior design, fit out and refurbishment specialist achieved a 30% reduction in their electricity usage through ISO 50001.
