

BS OHSAS 18001 Occupational Health and Safety Management Systems Internal Auditor

What is it?

A BS OHSAS 18001 Occupational Health and Safety Management System can pave the way for optimum working conditions across your organization. Critical to this is the way you monitor the system's performance. An internal audit allows you to assess your health and safety management in detail, ensuring that your BS OHSAS 18001 framework remains effective and gives you maximum benefit.

Why do I need it?

Quality occupational health and safety management leads to a healthier and safer workplace, and auditing is critical to continually improving your BS OHSAS 18001 management system. Internal audits help you to assess every aspect of your system against the BS OHSAS 18001 standard. And becoming an internal auditor helps you identify gaps in your health and safety management – giving your organization the knowhow to close them and the confidence to improve the way you work.

How will I benefit?

With BS OHSAS 18001 you can boost customer, staff, stakeholder, and supplier confidence in the way you manage health and safety across your organization. You will have a framework for future legal and regulatory compliance, which will strengthen your business reputation. Once you have a robust health and safety system in place you can reduce or avoid workplace accidents and illness that cost both time and money. And better working conditions will lead to better performance.

What will I learn?

This two-day course will show you how to audit to the BS OHSAS 18001 standard. You will review how much you already know about the standard, close gaps in your knowledge and consider BS OHSAS 18001 requirements in the context of an audit. Learn to plan, perform and report on an internal audit, and understand the role you play in improving your health and safety management system. Our tutors will help you identify the roles and responsibilities of a successful internal auditor – giving you the confidence to fulfil them.
