

Compliance Navigator

for Medical Devices

Stay informed. Stay compliant.

Standards, regulatory and guidance information is often distributed across various sources, and relying on existing hard copies can be limiting. Tailored to the specific needs of medical device manufacturers, Compliance Navigator is a unique, user-focused service that transforms the way you manage the compliance needs of new and existing medical device products in your portfolio and development pipeline.

Compliance Navigator shrinks the haystack of information for your device – a simple search unearths the most relevant and current information you need.

Don't search for documents; search for devices.

All you need to do is let Compliance Navigator know what kind of device you're designing or manufacturing and it will bring the documents to you – saving you valuable time and effort in obtaining and maintaining conformity. It gives you the confidence that the documents you see are related to your needs and are only a click away.

No need to print or save large PDF files.

View documents in full-text and take advantage of links between documents to relevant sections or companion standards within Compliance Navigator and external sources. Create and save documents to a product profile and share it with others within your organization so that everyone is using and accessing the same information. You'll also be able to add and remove content when needed – ensuring your product's documentation evolves along with your product design and manufacturing needs.

Gain a long-term view of how the regulatory profile of your products will evolve over time.

Compliance Navigator will inform you when a document you're using for your device has entered the revision process, what stage of revision it is currently in and what type of revision it is going through. You can reduce your time spent finding and tracking potential and actual developments – leaving you more time to assess the risk to your business and plan accordingly.
