BIM Strategic Implementation training course

Essential information about the course

Level

As Building Information Modelling (BIM) gets embedded into the way we do business, it is essential for organizations to be able to effectively implement it into their business or projects. If you have knowledge of BIM and need to understand how to effectively embed BIM processes and procedures then this course is for you. Most delegates on this course have already attended our BIM fundamentals course and are looking to develop a plan and determine the resources required for implementation.

This course will also help you obtain the benefits of digitization through the introduction of BS 1192, ensuring you adopt lean and collaborative working on the delivery and use of built assets. An understanding of PAS 1192-3 and BS 8536 for infrastructure and buildings will also be covered.

This one-day course will give you the knowledge and skills required to effectively implement BIM across your organization and supply chain. You will discover the barriers to adoption and how to overcome these as well as the benefits of structured collaboration and how it enables growth.
