...making excellence a habit.™

Reduce your social and environmental impact and cut your event costs with ISO 20121

Organizations are increasingly being required to demonstrate how they are measuring the impacts of their activity on society and the planet. They are also being challenged to improve their financial performance. The events sector is no exception.

ISO 20121 is the internationally recognized standard for best practice event sustainability management. It is proven to provide a robust framework to help an organization tailor its strategy and operations to deliver a balanced approach to economic activity, environmental responsibility and social progress.

Successful implementation of an event sustainability management system will ensure continual performance improvement and systematic management of issues rather than an ad-hoc approach. Organizations adopting ISO 20121 will be required to demonstrate that they are minimizing potential negative impacts on the environment, communities and local economy - maximizing the positive impacts and leaving a legacy to be proud of.

The benefits our certified clients have enjoyed speak for themselves:

Demonstrate your role as a 'responsible organization'

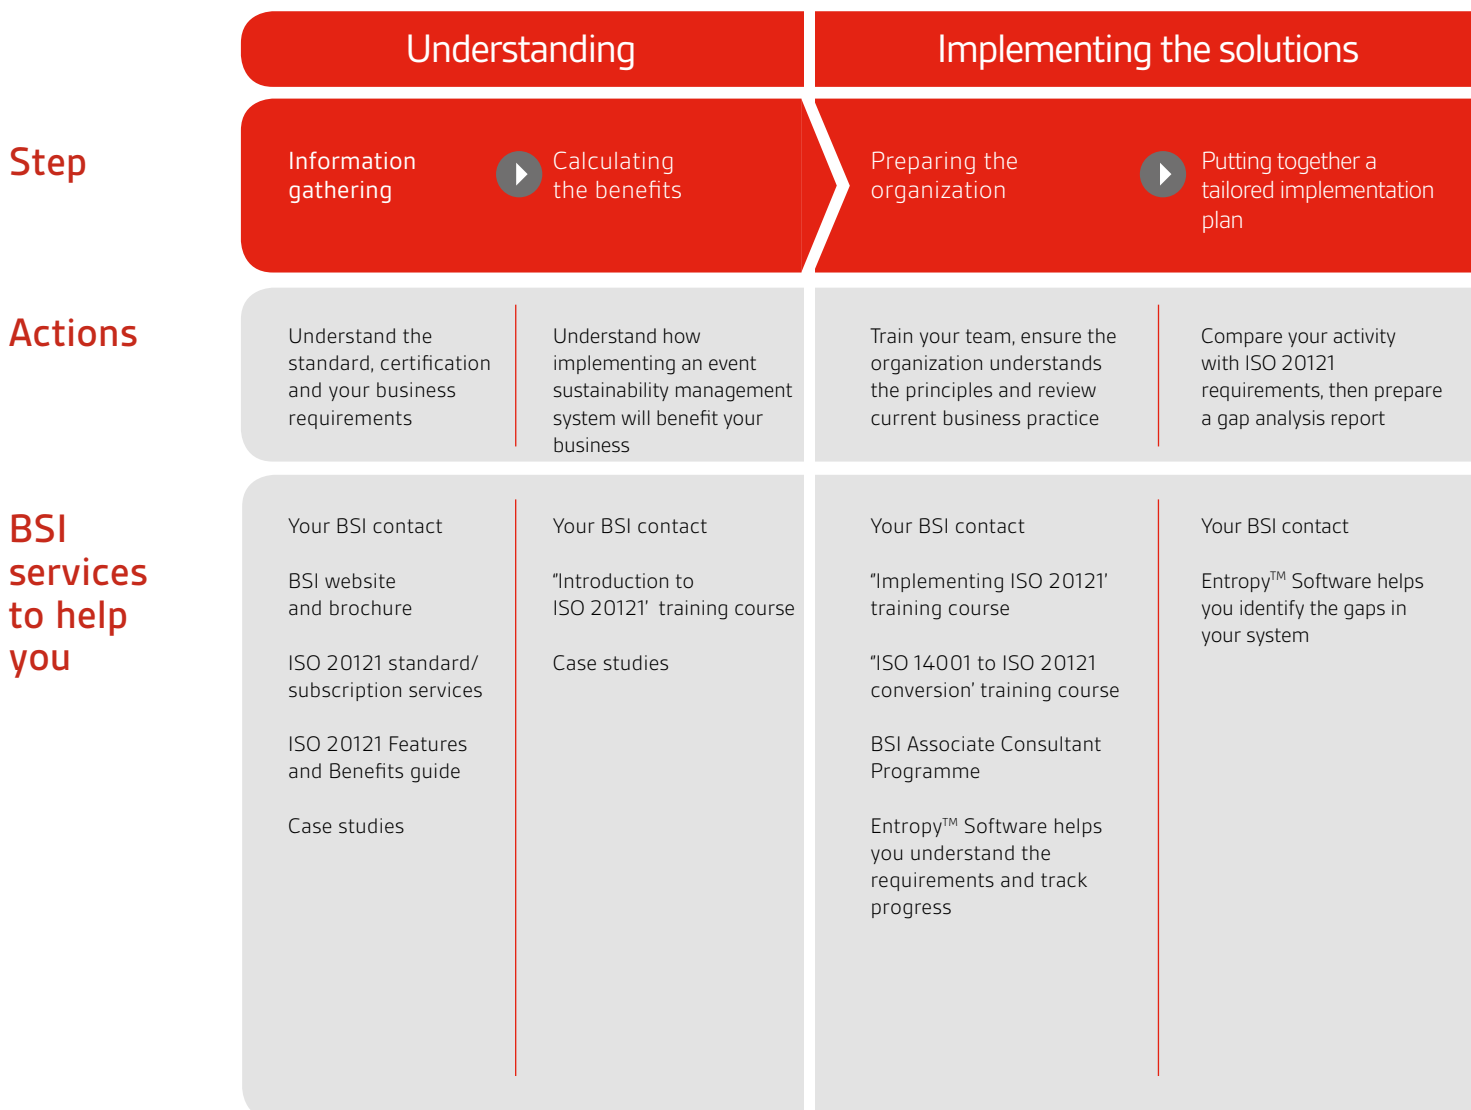

Every event – from a village fête to a major sporting event – will have economic, social and environmental impacts. Water and energy resources are put under pressure, significant amounts of waste and carbon emissions can be generated. Events can also put a strain on local communities.

ISO 20121 will help an organization identify the potentially negative impacts of its events. Organizers can then remove or reduce negative impacts through improved planning and processes to demonstrate they are managing activities as sustainably as possible.

“Our vision is to set the benchmark for sustainability. By implementing ISO 20121 we hope to be able to host more international sailing events post London 2012 and attract more organizations to use our conference facilities.”

John Tweed, Chief Executive,
Weymouth and Portland National Sailing Academy
