

Information Resilience in the Supply Chain

Seminar, 15 October 2019

Your Supply Chain is only as strong as your weakest link

There is not a single organization that is NOT exchanging information or data with their suppliers/ vendors. In many cases organizations rely on receiving accurate, confidential and timely information from their suppliers. In other cases, organizations are providing highly sensitive information to their suppliers.

Join industry expert Willibert Fabritius as he discusses example use cases and methods for organizations of all sizes and how to strengthen information resilience in the supply chain.
