know about working with BSI
as an external clinician

What is BSI Medical Devices?

BSI The Netherlands (2797) is a leading Notified Body; we review medical devices to ensure that they conform to the requirements of the European Directives and Regulations. BSI UK (0086) is a UK Approved Body able to provide conformity assessments under the new UKCA scheme.

BSI performs conformity assessments to ensure devices are safe and perform as intended

What is an external clinician?

BSI's team of experts has a broad range of clinical, scientific and technical expertise, allowing us to review most aspects of these devices.

However, we sometimes need additional expertise; this is where your clinical and specialist knowledge would be invaluable, helping us to ensure that patient safety remains the focus of BSI product reviews. If you are interested in evidence-based medicine and supporting BSI in assessing medical devices for conformity in the European Union and Great Britain, we want to hear from you.

What are the areas we need additional expertise in?

These are some of the areas where we would value your contributions:

Orthopaedic

Dental

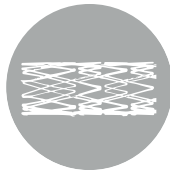

Active Implantable Devices

Active Devices

IVDs

Vascular

General Devices

Biological Substances

Drug-Device Combination

What are the benefits to you?

- Be involved with innovation
- Support product review to ensure patient safety
- Work alongside a specialist team

Key requirements before applying:

- You will be a consultant-level clinician or at a senior stage in your career
- You will have evidence-based medicine expertise
- You will be in current clinical practice
